

Inaugural Lecture

Integrated planning – beyond borders?

Planning processes are often complex, involving a multitude of actors, at different levels of governance, and with a diversity of interests. Furthermore, planning perspectives may cross borders of disciplines, sectors, spatial units, time scale etc. Based on research on planning processes and decision-making, the lecture discuss consequences of the complexity, and perspectives for sustainable solutions to current challenges.

Anne Gravsholt Busck
Professor

Friday 1 March 2024, 14<sup>15</sup>
in Aud B, Øster Voldgade 10

Everybody is welcome

After the lecture a reception will be held in Rød Stue.